INTERACTIVE WORKSHOP

- Develop practical solutions to the complex issue of human trafficking.
- Take the initiative to become directly involved in implementing solutions.

July 31, 2018

6-8pm

Veterans Memorial Hall
968 23rd St, Richmond, CA 94804

Program/Process Description

On June 27th, nearly 200 residents of Richmond attended a forum sponsored by the Richmond Police Department on the topic of human trafficking and prostitution, particularly in the 23rd street corridor of Richmond. It was a good first step, but much more needs to happen in order to realize positive change for all involved. The police departments is only one of many critical resources that are necessary.

Rather than a Q&A session, this next gathering will involve a "Collaborative Solutions Workshop" that will engage YOU to collaborate with fellow citizens to develop practical solutions to the complex issue of human trafficking. Led by a professional collaborative problem-solving facilitator, this process will allow each and every person who attends to directly contribute ideas. For those who want to take the initiative to become directly involved in implementing solutions, this forum will also serve as a channel for organizing and kicking off a variety of initiatives that YOU will dream up. A group of experts will be on hand to provide advice and to reality-check ideas that come up.

Be part imagining new and creatives ideas for positive change. Be part of the solution!
